LITTLE GENERAL FARM PAYS

Profit Secured in Poultry as Well as Horses, Mules, Dairy Stock, Sheep and Hogs.

(By W. H. SHEPARD)

A neighbor of ours makes poultry a strong side line of his farming. He grows a great variety of plants and keeps and feeds a variety of animals. His poultry sales amount to nearly $200 each year and he feeds his grown chickens nothing except what they pick up about the place, but through his methods of cropping and feeding they secure an abundance, and respond accordingly.

The same neighbor keeps and grows horses and mules, dairy stock, sheep and hogs.

From the poultry and cows he has a constant daily cash income.

From the horses and mules he sells each year one or two animals at $100 or more a piece.

From the sheep he has wool to sell in early spring, and lambs later in the summer, and from the hogs he sells from $100 to $200 worth every two or three months.

He grows wheat, oats, corn, hay and a variety of forage crops, besides a good orchard, truck patches, and garden from which nearly all the family staples are grown, with some fruits and vegetables to sell.

He also sells from $100 to $200 worth of wheat each year, and his dairy products amount to $400 per year, and all from a farm of less than 100 acres.

Any general farmer who plans and executes can grow a variety of plants and animals on a small farm, make good money from the crops, and at the same time build up his land faster than by special cropping.

NUB CORN BEFORE PLANTING

Carefully Conducted Experiments Have Proven Advantages in Practice—Increases Yield.

At the North Carolina station carefully conducted experiments have demonstrated that it is advisable to nub corn before planting, for it has been found that, when seed from the tips and butts of ears are placed in one plot, and by the side of it another of the same ears, there is a larger percentage of dwarfed and barren stalks on the plot planted in tip and but kernels than from the other, and hence less yield of shelled corn per acre.

As both plots were planted on the same type of soil, and treated in the same way by fertilization and cultivation, it is strongly probable that the decreased yield of the plot sown in butt and tip grains was due to the seed, as all other conditions were as nearly identical for both as it was possible to secure.

CONVENIENT AS A NAIL BOX

Anything in Shape of Pan May Be Divided into Compartments to Hold Bolts and Screws.

Anything from a half gallon baking pan to a six-gallon dishpan may be used in making a very useful and convenient compartment box in which to keep nails, screws and bolts. The pan may be divided into four, six or eight compartments.

To make the divisions, get the distance across the bottom and the top of the pan, secure a piece of board just as wide as the pan is deep, and long enough to make the piece, an other piece two or three inches broader for the piece that forms the handle. Cut a notch as shown at X, this notch to be as wide as the boards are thick.

Place the No. 1 in center of pan and nail in place, through the sides and bottom of pan. Next place No. 2 across No. 1 so that the notches at XX will fit in each other, then nail as you did No. 1. If more places are wanted, these quarters may be subdivided.

Early inoculation.

It is interesting to examine young alfalfa plants and note how quickly they obtain the benefit of nitrogen-gathering bacteria. Plants less than four weeks old may have two or three nodules on a single root and have a countless number of bacteria furnishing nitrogen from the air. When land is first inoculated by the use of soil from an old field one may find much unevenness in the size of plants at an early age, due to the fact that the taller plants are getting an abundance of nitrogen, while the smaller plants have few or no bacteria at work for them. It is for this reason that a second seeding on land that has been much used to grow alfalfa successfully is much surer than a first seeding.

The Best Soil.

The best soil upon a farm is one that warms early in the spring and that holds enough moisture for plant growth. A soil of this kind should contain some sand, clay and organic matter. The sand permits the air to enter and the clay and organic matter aid in holding the moisture. It is stable and easy to work.

POULTRY

HOW TO FUMIGATE HEN HOUSE

Building Should Be Closed Tightly and All Fowls Excluded—Be Careful of Poison Used.

Fumigation is a means of reaching germs and insect life in the air of the room and in the cracks and crannies of the wood work, says the Cultivator. The house or room should be tightly closed and all fowls excluded during fumigation. A simple method is to burn the sulphur candles now sold at stores dealing in poultry supplies. The fumes of brimstone may also be produced by burning in a metal basin (such as an old iron kettle) a number of rags previously soaked in melted sulphur. Sulphur may be mixed with a little alcohol or kerosene oil and burned, or it may be sprinkled upon live coals placed in a chafin dish. The house or room should be kept closed for several hours and then opened as thoroughly as possible to allow the wind to drive out any remaining trace of poisonous gas. In fumigating by burning substances be careful not to set fire to the building. Remember also that in most cases the substances which are used are poisonous to human life and to fowls. Carelessness in their use or in leaving them about where chick or child can get at them may have dire results.

USING A FIRELESS BROODER

Box Protected by Wool Carpet and Heated by Small Jug of Warm Water is Excellent.

A there are many poultrymen who prefer to raise chicks in a fireless brooder, we give here a plan suggested by W. D. Neale, which has been used successfully for two years, says the Iowa Homestead. He secured a box three feet long, sixteen inches wide and eight inches deep from his grocer for fifteen cents. An opening was made in one side of the box four inches in width and height to admit the chicks. To fit in this box, make a frame of laths two inches less in width and length than the box. The laths were placed about three inches apart and nailed securely to cross pieces at either end. This frame fitted inside the box and rested on nails, two at each end, driven through the box at the desired height. These nails were withdrawn and driven higher in the ends of the box as the chicks grew so that they would have more room beneath the frame. A piece of wool carpet was thrown over the top of the frame and pressed down beneath the lath so that the folds would just touch the downy backs of the chicks. On cold nights an extra piece of carpet was thrown over the box or a small jug of warm water placed inside. The bottom of the box was kept covered with straw.

Fireless Brooder.

Covering of Brooder.

POULTRY NOTES

Never harbor mongrel stock.

Don't forget to whitewash the interior of your houses.

Expect disease and low vitality when fowls are bred year in and year out.

Send to market all the stock that you can spare, for the prices of feed are still high.

Plump chickens are wanted in market; remember that lousy chickens will not fatten.

From October 15th to about November 20th the best prices for poultry are generally obtained.

New blood may be added to the flock, by buying some choice pullets of a reliable poultry keeper.

Lining nest boxes with newspapers makes it easy to lift out litter, paper and all. Then set a match to it.

Authorities claim that the eggs from a hen will be fertile for ten days after the removal of the male from the flock.

Do not let your young birds roost with the old hens, as they are liable to catch diseases which old hens are more subject to.

All hens which have completed their second laying season should be disposed of at once, to make room for the young stock.

Save the small potatoes and imperfect heads of cabbage and other waste vegetables. They will all be relished by the hens in the winter.

Don't delay any longer making repairs to the houses or fences, winter may be here before you are ready. At the same time, clean up the runs and walks.

GOOD ROADS

PUBLIC ROADS OF COUNTRY

Increased Mileage of Highways Within Period of About Five Years Has Been 48,266.

Even with a high-powered automobile that could keep up a pace of 90 miles a day indefinitely, it would take a man more than 65 years to cover all the public roads in the United States. A young man of twenty starting out to accomplish this tremendous task would be eighty-five before he had covered the last mile of public highway in this country.

After an investigation extending over many months, the director of the office of public roads has ascertained that there are now 2,198,515 miles of public roads in the United States. The figures include all the new roads built up to the year 1909. In 1904 there were exactly 2,151,249. It is apparent, therefore, that the increased mileage of new roads within a period of about five years has been 48,266.

"The investigation just concluded," said the director, in an interview, "shows conclusively that the movement for the improvement of public highways has obtained a firm grip on the country. The percentage of roads which are really improved amounted to 7.14 in 1901, while in 1909, to which year statistics are now available, the percentage was 8.65.

"It is interesting to observe the growth of improved methods in road construction. For instance, the total mileage of stone roads in 1904 was 25,815, while in 1909 it was 59,237. The total mileage of gravel roads in 1904 was 109,905, while in 1909 it was only 102,570. This decrease in gravel roads, however, was due to a re-classification of roads. Many of those reported in 1904 to be of gravel proved to be of some other substance, while exaggerations were eliminated. "The total mileage of sand-clay, brick, bituminous-macadam and other improved roads in 1904 was 6,806, while in 1909 the mileage reached 28,372."

Public Road Before Improvement.

The office of public roads has just issued a table showing the states having the largest mileage of improved roads:

	1904	1909
Indiana	23,877	24,553
Ohio	22,407	24,407
New York	19,004	19,297
Wisconsin	10,233	10,107
Kentucky	8,446	8,446
Illinois	7,521	8,914
California	5,813	5,813
Massachusetts	1,242	1,403

ONE ROAD BUILDING FAILURE

Lack of Proper Care to Thoroughfare Constructed by Inexperienced Men Shows Results.

About forty years ago, Adams county, Ohio, issued bonds to improve part of its main roads. At that time very little was known about the science of road making. Usually a local man undertook the contract for a certain piece of work and secured local help as inexperienced as he. Very little, if any, attention was paid to the character of the bed upon which the stones were to be laid and still less to the different qualities of stones secured from the quarries near by. Hard and soft stones were placed side by side as bricks are now laid in our common street paving, says a writer in an exchange. After a few years of wear and erosion, with no attention given to repair, these roads were in a condition almost worse than before improvement. Adams county is a good example of a community that has improved roads and has paid no attention to their upkeep. A few hundred dollars spent judiciously on each road would have kept them in good condition for many years. As conditions are now, enough money has been spent to have the best of roads, but because of lack of proper care, they are only second or third class and the county is still heavily in debt for these roads.

FARM STOCK

SYSTEM FOR MARKING PIGS

Best Method Is Marking Notches in Ears and Having Each Notch Represent Definite Number.

(By GEORGE MORRIS)

When a farmer raises pigs for sale as breeders, he should have a definite system of marking each litter. There are several methods of doing this, of which perhaps the best consists of making notches in the ears and having each notch represent a definite number.

By means of the following method as many as a hundred litters may be marked with not to exceed four notches in the ears of each pig. For example: Let a notch on the lower edge of the left ear represent No. 1; on the same edge near the tip, No. 10; on the upper edge of the same ear near the tip, No. 30. On the right ear, lower edge near the head, let the notch represent No. 2; and on the same edge near the tip, No. 30; on the upper edge of the same ear, No. 5; and on the same edge near the tip, No. 50. This system is easy to remember. All you have to keep in mind is that No. 1 is on the left ear near the head and No. 5 just above it on the upper edge, and that on the right ear No. 2 is on the lower edge near the head and No. 5 is just above it on the upper edge. Near the tips the numbers are just ten times as large as those near the head.

Each pig of litter No. 1 should have the notch on the upper edge of the same ear, those of number three should have the notch on the lower edge of the right ear near the head, those of No. 4 should have a notch on the lower edge of both ears near the head. By following this system any number of combinations of these numbers may be made up to 100.

By studying the illustration one may get a good idea of this method of marking. The key hand shows the method already described, while the other three figures show how the ears are marked for litters 5, 17 and 41. Each year the litters should be numbered in the order of their birth, each pig in the litter being given the same marking. Always record the litter identification marks in a book kept exclusively for the purpose.

Treatment for Scours.

Good success was attained at the South Carolina station in treating calves affected with scours by adding formalin to the milk at the rate of one part to four thousand. Eleven calves out of twelve treated recovered without any further attention, seven on the second day, three on the third and one on the ninth. The calves were young ones fed chiefly on skim milk.

LIVE STOCK NOTES

Always use a thoroughbred boar.

Winter shoeing should be most carefully done.

There never was a better time than now to start in sheep.

Epidemic among hogs are more easily prevented than cured.

The novice should start with a few first-class ewes, never any culs.

Fatten the rattle-headed sow that is hard to handle at pigging time.

Whoever heard of a horse getting thrush if his stable and feet were kept clean?

Without midding and barley are fine as a feed for growing pigs or fattening hogs.

In all cases where perfect cleanliness has been enforced there has been no disease.

Fancy and well conditioned lambs are the ones that bring home the money from any market.

Sheats are high the world over, and lamb and mutton more in demand by consumers than ever before.

Planning to be right on hand and serve every pig may mean many dollars to you at farrowing time.

With lamb chops selling at twenty-five cents a pound in the markets, the rate is surely "good" for sheep.

When the pigs begin to eat they become almost self supporting and are demanding less and less of the grower.

Are You Nervous?

What makes you nervous? Is it the weakness of your womanly constitution, which cannot stand the strain of the hard work you do. As a result, you break down, and ruin your entire nervous system. Don't keep this up! Take Cardui, the woman's tonic. Cardui is made from purely vegetable ingredients. It acts gently on the womanly organs, and helps them to do their proper work. It relieves pain and restores health, in a natural manner, by going to the source of the trouble and building up the bodily strength.

TAKE The CARDUI Woman's Tonic

Mrs. Grace Farmer, of Man, W. Va., took Cardui.

This is what she says about it: "I was so weak and nervous, I could not bear to have anyone near me. I had fainting spells, and I lost flesh every day. The first dose of Cardui helped me. Now, I am entirely cured of the fainting spells, and I cannot say enough for Cardui, for I know it saved my life." It is the best tonic for women.

Do you suffer from any of the pains peculiar to women? Take Cardui. It will help you. Ask your druggist.

By A. W. MARY.

It has very rare occurrence for the senate of the United States to pass a vote of censure on the president, but such a thing was done during Andrew Jackson's administration. It was in the year 1823, and the trouble grew out of the celebrated United States Bank and the president's relation to it. The resolution of censure read thus: "Resolved, That the president, in the late executive proceedings, in relation to the public revenue, has assumed upon himself authority and power not conferred by the constitution and laws, but in derogation of the same."

As is well known, was not noted for his meanness. When he learned of the passage of the resolution he was in a towering rage. He came back at the senate with a message that fairly stirred with wrath. He called the members and vehemently denied the right of the senate to pass judgment on the executive, a coordinate part of the government. The senate was equally obstinate for a time, but finally in 1827, the resolution was expunged from the records.

Colic is the sorest pain that sometimes afflicts the abdomen. It is a sharp, cutting pain, which is the result of eating something that is somewhat indigestible, such as shell fish, pork or cheese, but it sometimes comes from eating too much food that in moderate quantity is perfectly wholesome. Colic from the latter cause is common in very small babies, who resort to their screaming and crying by the time they are at the same time violently drawing up their legs.

The chief symptom of simple colic caused by an error in diet is pain. The pain may be felt in one place, or it may move about from one part of the abdomen to another. Pressure generally relieves it a little, but sometimes there is so much tenderness that the slightest touch cannot be borne.

Intestinal colic is not always due to imprudent eating. Various serious disorders, such as gallstones, appendicitis and peritonitis, may give rise to the same symptoms. Lead colic causes severe abdominal pain, but in this case the condition of the patient's gums makes the diagnosis easy. When the pain is due to some serious internal condition, the physician can quickly recognize the fact by the prostration of the patient, and by other symptoms that he has learned to associate with acute abdominal disease.

The treatment of ordinary colic is directed to relieving the pain and removing the undigested food. When the pain is very severe, it may be necessary to give an anodyne, prescribed of course by a physician; but milder attacks usually yield to the application of heat.

Very small children and babies need the same treatment as older people—apply warmth locally, and giving medicine that will relieve the system of the offending substance at once. After the child has recovered, it is a good plan to arrange his diet very carefully, in order that he may not become subject to such attacks.

Colic from the latter cause is common in very small babies, who resort to their screaming and crying by the time they are at the same time violently drawing up their legs.

The chief symptom of simple colic caused by an error in diet is pain. The pain may be felt in one place, or it may move about from one part of the abdomen to another. Pressure generally relieves it a little, but sometimes there is so much tenderness that the slightest touch cannot be borne.

Intestinal colic is not always due to imprudent eating. Various serious disorders, such as gallstones, appendicitis and peritonitis, may give rise to the same symptoms. Lead colic causes severe abdominal pain, but in this case the condition of the patient's gums makes the diagnosis easy. When the pain is due to some serious internal condition, the physician can quickly recognize the fact by the prostration of the patient, and by other symptoms that he has learned to associate with acute abdominal disease.

The treatment of ordinary colic is directed to relieving the pain and removing the undigested food. When the pain is very severe, it may be necessary to give an anodyne, prescribed of course by a physician; but milder attacks usually yield to the application of heat.

Very small children and babies need the same treatment as older people—apply warmth locally, and giving medicine that will relieve the system of the offending substance at once. After the child has recovered, it is a good plan to arrange his diet very carefully, in order that he may not become subject to such attacks.

Something to Think About.

Many words won't kill a luncheon, but a fire, lightning, or tornado policy with us will fill a want in human happiness that will otherwise remain unsatisfied.

Local Mention.

Good morning! Did you enjoy the inauguration? We did, too, by not being present.

Mr. Philip Dahl was here from Owensboro the first of the week on his business round.

Mr. J. P. Morgan returned Monday from a business trip to Chicago, where he spent several days.

Skating on pavements will be a luxury now, as an ordinance provides a fine of $1 for each offense.

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Brizendine arrived Sunday, and are at home on Mill street.

Mr. W. O. Belcher was here the latter part of the week on business matters.

Mr. Mack Ferguson, of South Carrollton, was Muhlenberg's lone representative at the inauguration.

Mr. M. B. McDonald was in Louisville and Cincinnati on business this week.

Easter comes earlier this year than it has in ninety years, and could be only one day earlier.

Mrs. James Ingram and child are here on a visit to relatives and friends, coming up from Princeton the first of the week.

Mr. M. M. Wheeler, of Central City, was here Monday on business, and mingling with some of his friends.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Gilman are in Louisville for a few days, where Mr. Gilman is attending the auto show and attending to other business matters.

Important Coal Land Deal.

One of the largest coal land deals that has been made in this country in some time was closed this week, when Mr. W. A. Wickliffe, Mrs. Mollie Reynolds and Mr. J. A. Gilman transferred 1,034 acres of mineral right, 160 acres of it including the surface, to the Beech Creek Coal Co. The land lays along the Greenville-Dukeshoto road, extending from Pond Creek to Ebenezer church, and is rich in coal and mineral. It is not planned to develop the property right away, but that will be done in time. The deal was made by the real estate firm of Kirkpatrick & Rodi, and they are being congratulated by their many friends over the important transaction.

Mike Kahoot Dies.

Uncle Mike Kahoot, aged 82 years, died at the poor farm at 11 o'clock Monday night, after a short illness from infirmities of age. For about fifteen years he had been an inmate of the county institution, and had become generally known. He was born in Germany, was educated highly, and was appreciative of all favors. His body was laid to rest in the graveyard on the farm.

Roark has the agency for the line of Sturges "Superba" baby carriages, one of the most complete lines on the market. See them before you buy; made right, look fine, priced right.

The work of overhauling the First National Bank building has been completed, and the improvement is most marked. The telephone quarters and the private offices are now about the most inviting in town.

Central City Gets $7,500 Postoffice Appropriation.

Central City is in the list of Kentucky cities which will be provided with government public buildings, and an appropriation of $7,500 has been made for a post-office building, which should provide our neighbor with a building that will be an honor. This will be the first building in the county of the kind, and Central City is naturally very proud of the signal recognition.

To The Public.

We desire to announce to the public that our new mill is now in full operation, and we will at all times have on hand the very finest quality of flour, meal and feed. We are very anxious to do custom grinding for our friends, and can give them the very best flour and wheat that is to be had anywhere, in exchange for their corn and wheat.

HOME MILLING CO. (INC)

The ladies' aid society of the Christian Church, at Powderly, solicit orders for carpet weaving, plain and fancy sewing, baking, etc., which will be done reasonably, the funds being thus collected to be used in church extension work.

Take your beef hides to J. E. Coombs & Co. and get the cash.

Alterations in Muhlenberg County Savings Bank Near Completion.

Workmen are rushing to a finish the alterations in the Muhlenberg County Savings bank building, and the newly arranged rooms will be occupied at once. The bank will now have needed extra space, and the suite of offices of Judge T. J. Sparks cannot be surpassed for convenience and attractiveness.

When you get "Quail" meal you get the best that is to be had.

An Ordinance to Protect Pedestrians in the City of Greenville.

The City Council of the City of Greenville Do Ordain as follows:

It shall be unlawful for any person or persons to run over any concrete pavements or sidewalk in the City of Greenville on roller skates and any persons so offending shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined One Dollar.

Freight Gets Ten Sheep.

Last Saturday night about 7 o'clock a through freight train killed ten sheep and injured seven at the Withers crossing. The sheep had been purchased by Mr. Robert Frazier, and he was driving them to his farm nearby. As the sheep crossed the track some of them wandered through the cattle guard. A train was coming from the east, and Mr. Frazier and his helpers dragged off all the animals they could, but time was limited, and nearly half the herd was hit. The injured ones are being given attention by Mr. Frazier.

Ford Automobile Factory Jumping.

Trade reports from the Ford Motor Co. show an astonishing volume of business that is being done. During January 17,001 cars were shipped, amounting to over $9,000,000, one day 1,336 cars being made and shipped, requiring over 200 freight cars. Even with this immense output, the factory has on file orders for more than 40,000 cars, which means that the concern is more than two months behind on shipment.

Post Office Improvements.

Postmaster Poole has been making several important improvements in the office, half a hundred lock boxes having been added, the working space enlarged, and the interior brightened generally. The handling of the parcel post shipments is getting to be a large part of the work, but he and his force are keeping right up with it and all affairs of the office.

Prominent Coal Operator Dies.

Mr. John C. Brown, manager of the Bevier Coal Co., at Cleaton, died at Louisville last Thursday, where he had been six weeks under treatment. Bright's Disease was the cause of death. There were few more prominent and popular men in the county than John Brown. He was a fine business man, was genial and accommodating, and one of the most loved coal operators in this section. His body was carried to his old home in London, Ky., for burial.

Mr. Marvin Wells A.pts. Death in Louisville.

Mr. Marvin Wells came over from Henderson Monday, and spent a day or two here with his home folks and friends. He has accepted a position with the Buschmeyer Drug Co., and will be at their new store, Third and Broadway, one of the most superb stores in the South. The many friends of Mr. Wells here are pleased over this recognition of his ability, and he carries the best wishes of a wide circle of friends.

Todd county will soon have improved highways, as it is thought there will be an overwhelming vote on April 12 in favor of the issuance of $150,000 in bonds, the funds to be used in building macadam roads. Western Kentucky is awakening to the importance of improved highways, and the growing interest is manifesting itself in action. People are realizing that poor roads are the heaviest tax, while money spent for good roads is the safest and best investment. Muhlenberg should join in the plans being made by our neighbors, and begin the macadamizing of our highways.

Estray Notice.

Taken up as astray by Tom Fox living on what is known as "The Dutch Farm" about Dec. 1st 1912. Two red heifers about one year old and unmarked; valued at fifteen dollars each by L. Z. Kirkpatrick. Subscribed and sworn to before me by Tom Fox this fourth day of March 1913.

YEAR BOOK of Stark Bro's Nurseries & Orchards Co. MAILED TO YOU FREE

Just say on a Postal Card: "Send me a copy of Stark Year Book for 1913." When writing, also tell us how many trees, shrubs, vines, etc., you will probably plant this season.

This Year Book is more than a mere catalogue of Stark nursery products, it is a practical, easy to understand text book for the guidance of the man who plants trees. Our own experience of nearly 100 years, the reports of experiment stations and the opinions of planters from all sections are condensed and reproduced for the benefit of busy people. An encyclopedia of orchard information, containing full size color illustrations of gloriously tinted fruit and many photographic reproductions in black and white; also information on many subjects in which the orchardist is interested.

Hundreds of varieties of apples, pears, peach, plum, cherry, apricot, quince, grape and all small fruits are described; weaknesses of each variety are pointed out and good points are explained. We feel that planters should know both.

Those interested in growing fruits or flowers or shrubs or shade trees will find this book of inestimable value; totally different from the average nurseryman's publications. It is a book you will keep for reference, and one on which you can depend as being absolutely accurate. Write today for your copy.
